MAY DAY

Many countries in Europe and North America celebrate May Day on May 1 with dances around a maypole, a high wooden pole adorned with colors and flowers.

“Winds of May that dance on the sea, dancing a ring-around in glee. From furrow to furrow, while overhead, the foam flies up to be garlanded.”

- James Joyce

MAY

May is a spring month in the northern half of the world, and a fall month in the southern half. It is likely named after Maia, the goddess of growth.

May is known to be the hottest month of the year in India, and it can indeed get swelteringly hot. With the heat comes rain, and therefore humidity, at temperatures around 40-42 degrees Celsius.
